

This book is about teaching volleyball skills using Mosston's three different teaching styles at collegiate level. Teaching episodes implemented in this pedagogical study are provided, a Review of literatures on conducting research study employing Mosston's instructional theory as frame work was also included. Furthermore, A Survey Study on Preservice Physical Education Teachers' Self-Report on Using and Perception the Spectrum of Teaching Styles was also included. Consequently, with this book you will be able to understand why Mosston's spectrum of teaching styles works better in teaching physical education skills and coaching sport techniques; you will obtain a complete example on how to utilize Mosston's instructional theory as frame work conducting pedagogical studies; and you will have a idea how the preservice physical education teachers perceive the Spectrum of Teaching Styles.

Howard Zhenhao Zeng

IMPLEMENTING MOSSTON'S TEACHING STYLES IN PHYSICAL SKILL CLASSES

Collegiate Volleyball Learning Outcomes Taught by Three Different Teaching Styles

Howard Zhenhao Zeng

Doctor Howard Z. Zeng, an associate professor at Brooklyn College of the City University of New York, USA. His expertise is teaching physical education; include 13 years of teaching and research on Mosston's spectrum of teaching styles. Over the years, Dr. Zeng has published nearly sixty peer reviewed articles and books.

978-3-8484-2697-3