

Convergent Discovery Style-G

Style Summary

In the Convergent Discovery Style, the role of the teacher is to make all subject matter decisions, including the target concept to be discovered, and to design the single question delivered to the learner. The role of the learner is to engage in reasoning, questioning, and logic to sequentially make connections about the content to discover the answer.