

Subject Matter Objectives

When the Command style is achieved, the following subject matter objectives are reached:

- ▶ To reproduce a model by immediate performance
- ▶ To achieve accuracy and precision of performance
- ▶ To achieve immediate results
- ▶ To achieve a synchronized performance
- ▶ To adhere to a predetermined model
- ▶ To master subject matter skills
- ▶ To perpetuate cultural traditions and rituals
- ▶ To use time efficiently
- ▶ To cover more material
- ▶ Others

Command Style-A

Subject Matter Objective Notes

Not all of the above list of subject matter objectives apply to each and every Command Style episode. All episodes must answer the question:

Why are you doing what you are doing in the Command Style?

Why are your reasons for doing what (the subject matter) in the Command Style.

For example: precision parachuting

Each of the subject matter objectives listed above apply to this content. Adhering to a predetermined model and reproducing a specific model by immediate performance enhances the behavior objective of safety. Each of the other objectives complement content achievement.

The Why of each episode. The content and the behavior expectations (why) of each episode determines the ranking of the subject matter objectives.

Subject matter selection is a factor of curriculum decisions. The order, sequence of presentation, appropriateness and many other factors must be assessed to determine the worthwhileness of each individual episode.